

Terms and Conditions 2019/20

Harper Adams University

SEPTEMBER 2018

KEY INFORMATION RELATING TO YOUR CONTRACT WITH US FOR STUDENTS ENROLLED IN 2019/20 (‘TERMS AND CONDITIONS’)

Your contract for education with Harper Adams University (‘Contract’) is subject to the University’s terms and conditions and regulations as laid out below (together the University’s ‘Terms and Conditions’).

These Terms and Conditions and regulations apply to your relationship with us from the time that you accept an offer to study at Harper Adams University (‘the University’).

Any additional conditions specific to your Contract will be contained in your offer letter and will take precedence over any general Terms and Conditions laid out below.

We have set out below the key information, which includes underlined web links to more detailed policies, procedures, guidance and regulations.

Course information

Current course information is maintained on our course information webpages and will always contain the most up-to-date information due to the long production periods for printed material, such as prospectuses. Applicants are encouraged to review their own key course information which is downloadable in pdf format, before accepting any offer of a place. Webpages include information, for the next new cohort to enrol, on entry requirements, a broad overview of the rationale for the course, placement arrangements, accreditation, where applicable, an outline of subjects studied, approaches to teaching and learning including the proportion of time spent in class or on independent study, assessment methods and indicative career opportunities. Undergraduate course webpages also host the Key Information Set (KIS) web link to UNISTATS for each undergraduate course for the next entry intake. This is data organised by the Higher Education Statistics Agency and provides extensive historic information about undergraduate courses at each university. The webpages also contain a staff directory of the current academic staff at Harper Adams and, whilst there is no guarantee that you will be taught by any particular individual, applicants and students will gain an understanding of the range and depth of professional expertise amongst the teaching staff.

Changes to courses & preserving continuation of study

The University’s Student Protection Plan has been approved by the Office for Students. The Plan outlines the measures in place to preserve continuation of study for students and covers what happens in the event of minor and major changes to a course, a course closure, arrangements for courses run with other providers, arrangements for visa-sponsored students in the event the University loses its licence to sponsor students, insurances and estates risks, significant events affecting the University and University closure. The approved Student Protection Plan is hosted on the Key Information Page.

Student support

Our University Life webpages set out the many ways in which our students are supported beyond the immediate tutoring teams, including in relation to accommodation, disability, finance, academic guidance, health and wellbeing, placement and career preparation and library services. These services are available during term-time and on a more limited basis outside of term-time.

Placement Year

In support of the University's excellent record for employment and graduate employability levels, all UK-based undergraduate degree courses at Harper Adams University are sandwich degrees and include a mandatory placement period. Harper Adams University has excellent links with industry, which are reinforced through the unique placement arrangements as summarised herein.

The normal duration of placements is at least 44 weeks, although Agriculture students are required to complete at least 52 weeks and Veterinary Nurses must also complete a longer period, in line with the requirements of the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons. Unless an individual student is able to demonstrate significant and relevant experience of at least two years' full-time work, or has already completed a 12 month assessed placement as part of another course, it is a requirement of full-time degree courses that students satisfy three elements of their sandwich year. This includes demonstrating an insight into the organisation for which the student works, the ability to manage their personal and career development and that they are employable in a relevant professional context for their intended award. Students must normally have successfully completed their placement period before progressing to their final year of on-campus studies. Assessment involves submitting written work and an employer assessment of performance in the workplace. Placements involve working for an employer in a position of the student's choice but within certain constraints, the detail of which varies from course to course but includes the nature of the role and its relationship to the course and also independence of the employer from the student, since they are involved in assessing the student. Students are not normally permitted to work for an employer for whom they have previously worked for more than two weeks. Students on Agriculture courses who are from a family farm and who wish to spend their placement working on a farm are normally required to undertake placement at least 50 miles from the family farm. Applicants and students are advised to speak with the Course Manager or Placement Manager if they have specific queries around this requirement and will be fully briefed by their Placement Manager in their year of study before placement.

The tuition fees for the placement year are significantly reduced to one fifth of those for on-campus study periods and are eligible for student support, through the Student Loans Company. Where a student elects to spend their placement period overseas, additional costs related to travel, visa application, insurance and accommodation might also be incurred and are the responsibility of the student. In some instances, there might be a requirement to pay for additional agents' fees to provide access to in-country support, including in locations and roles considered 'higher risk'.

Placements are not provided by the University, but the University provides extensive guidance and support for students to compete for placement opportunities. Many employers provide opportunities solely for Harper Adams' students to compete for placements, whereas other employers offer Harper Adams' students the chance to compete alongside graduates and placement students from other Universities. The University has a very long and successful track record in working with employers and supporting students. Most placements are paid, although this will be clear from job advertisements and/or negotiable between the student and the employer. A minority of students work on a voluntary basis in order to secure placement experience that suits their precise career plans. Some placement positions may require students to disclose criminal convictions and cautions to placement employers.

If you would like more information on the detailed, current arrangements for a specific course, please contact the University Placement Office (placement@harper-adams.ac.uk) which can provide a copy of the latest Placement Handbook for your course on request.

Criminal convictions disclosure

The University does not collect information on criminal convictions from students/prospective students as a matter of course (as it has historically done during the enrolment process or for matters such as placement activity or accommodation allocation). There may be exceptional circumstances where the University may collect this data from individuals, where it is deemed necessary to do so in accordance with the Data Protection Act 2018. Where this is the case, individuals will be made aware at the time.

It is the responsibility of the individual student to ensure that they make themselves aware of any professional standards or sandwich placements which may be affected or restricted by the individual's criminal convictions history (for example where Disclosure and Barring Service checks are required). Applicants should ensure that they have carried out appropriate checks or sought advice from relevant professional bodies prior to committing to a course of study at the University.

Accommodation

First year undergraduate students are given priority when allocating on-campus accommodation, so that most undergraduate first years are able to live on-campus if they wish to do so. There are 850 bed spaces available in total, a number of which are also reserved for overseas students. There is also limited provision for full-time postgraduate students, allocated on a first-come-first served basis. These on-campus spaces are across 13 halls of residence. There are also 21 shared houses, five of which are reserved for full-time postgraduate and overseas students. Most undergraduate accommodation contracts run for 40 weeks and those for postgraduate and overseas students for 42 weeks. Part-time postgraduate students are able to access available accommodation, subject to availability, through the Short Course and Conference Office, on a daily or weekly basis.

On-campus accommodation includes options for self-catering or catered, en-suite or shared facilities, a limited number of shared rooms and provision of a laundry service. The Student Services team also manages a scheme to promote approved private properties off-campus, within the immediate local area and this service is available to undergraduate and postgraduate students. The team also provides advice to students who are considering entering into a tenancy agreement. The accommodation pages of the University website detail more information. Any contract for student accommodation is separate and additional to the University's contract with a student for the provision of education and as such is subject to separate terms and conditions, as set out in the Accommodation Agreement and Fees and Charges booklet. Please note that our accommodation application system is only available to those who have firmly accepted an offer (ie, for undergraduates, are 'UF' or 'CF' within the UCAS system with Harper Adams University for the next entry point).

The Admissions Policy includes information on who is involved in admissions arrangements and decisions, the admissions process and how individual applicants can request a review of admissions decisions and make a complaint. There is a separate student complaints procedure for on-course students.

The Fees and Charges Booklet includes information on tuition, accommodation and course-related fees, as well as charges for reassessment or restudy administration charges, how they might be subject to change and the basis on which any change would be made.

The booklet also includes details on liability dates for students who withdraw from their studies early. The booklet is provided with your offer letter.

The Key Information Page provides a complete list of the policies, procedures and guidance by which the relationship between applicants, students and the University is organised is available online: www.harper.ac.uk/keyinfo. Appendix 1 lists these documents. These documents have been collated to provide applicants and students with easy access to the arrangements by which students' studies and everyday student life, whilst at Harper Adams University, are governed. These are updated regularly and apply to all students studying at Harper Adams University in all years of study. The detailed arrangements are subject to periodic review, through approved decision making processes. These often involve committees which include student representation, although a small number are designated to staff members, by the Board of Governors.

The University reserves the right to make changes to these documents at any time if necessary, for example, it is required in order to: comply with changes to the law, governmental policy, guidance or to take account of a ruling by a court or similar body; comply with any changes required by the Office for Students (OfS) or any successor or other relevant regulatory or funding body; implement new methods or improvements to the provision of services; to assist in the delivery of services; to incorporate good practice or sector guidance; to ensure fitness for purpose; to correct errors.

Such changes will normally be brought into effect for the following academic year, although it may be necessary to introduce changes earlier, for example, to comply with a change in the law. The University will upload the updated version of the document to the Key Information Page webpage as soon as reasonably practicable.

Key Questions

When does a contract come into existence?

When you accept the offer of a place from the University, or when the conditions of an accepted conditional offer are met, a contract comes into existence. However, if you do not meet the conditions of a conditional offer or you do not enrol at the University, then the Contract/Offer will automatically expire at the time that the conditions are not met or the deadline for enrolment has passed, as specified in the offer letter, and you will not be liable for any fees.

Students are required to enrol at the University at the start of their course and to re-enrol as required, usually at the anniversary of the start date of studies.

Can I change my mind?

Your right to cancel

Your offer letter will contain details of your right to cancel your contract with us within 14 days of acceptance. This right to cancel is a statutory right and in addition to the rights listed below.

If a student cancels a contract within the 14 day cancellation period and before the commencement of the provision of services, the student will have no liability for tuition fees. If a student has a separate contract for accommodation, the charges will be payable in accordance with that contract (as set out in the link to Fees and Charges booklet).

If a student enrolls on a course which is due to commence before the end of the 14 day cancellation period, the student's decision to enrol will constitute an express request that the University's services should commence within the 14 day cancellation period. In this event, if a student subsequently cancels the Contract within the 14 day cancellation period, the University reserves the right to make a charge equivalent to the proportion of fees which have been incurred from the time of commencement of services up until the date of cancellation and may also retain any deposit in respect of the services provided.

Withdrawal

Students may withdraw from their studies at the University at any time after the 14 day cancellation period. However, where a student withdraws part way through an academic year, they may still be liable to pay fees and charges in accordance with the University's fees and charges regulations as detailed in the Fees and Charges Booklet. Where a student is thinking about withdrawing from a course, advice is available from the University. For further details and information about the procedure, please see the guidance set out on the Key Information Page in 'Thinking of withdrawing: where to start?' (alphabetically listed under 'Withdrawal from Studies').

Postponing studies

Students may also be able to postpone their studies after enrolment where there are exceptional circumstances such as ill health, significant changes in life circumstances or where a student is placement exempt and wishes to stay with their original cohort. There is no automatic right to postponement and each case will be reviewed on an individual basis.

Where a student postpones studies, the student may still be liable to pay fees and charges in accordance with the University's fees and charges regulations as detailed in the Fees and Charges Booklet. The student will also be required to complete the academic year again, other than modules which were completed in full before postponement. Students postponing studies due to ill health will be required to complete a Fitness to Study assessment in accordance with the University's Health and Wellbeing Policy (alphabetically listed on the Key Information Page) before they can return to studies. Where a student is thinking about postponing their studies, advice is available from the University.

For more details on the procedure for applying for postponement and the financial implications of the same, please refer to the guidance: Thinking of Postponing: where to start? for students thinking about postponing their studies (alphabetically listed under 'Postponement').

Can the University end the contract?

The University may end the Contract at any time and stop providing services to a student without liability and in accordance with the relevant policies, if a student:

- a) has provided false or misleading information to HAU in relation to an application, as set out in the Admissions Policy;
- b) becomes unfit to study or unfit to practise, as set out in the Health and Wellbeing Policy;
- c) fails to pay fees by the due date (including where fees are due to be paid by a third party on a student's behalf), as set out in the Collection of Student Debt Policy;
- d) fails to enrol in any year of their chosen course by the published enrolment date, without independent written evidence of mitigating circumstances;

- e) is expelled from the University as a result of disciplinary action as set out in the Student Disciplinary Policy;
- f) fails to meet the level of achievement required as set out within the Assessment Regulations, including in relation to academic achievement and performance on placement;
- g) fails to satisfy attendance requirements as set out in the Student Engagement and Attendance Management Policy (alphabetically listed under 'Attendance' on the Key Information Page).

If the University cancels a Contract with a student, then the student will be required to withdraw from the University immediately or will be refused enrolment as appropriate to the timing of the cancellation. A student may still be liable for fees and charges, including for tuition, accommodation or other services, if a contract is terminated in the above instances in accordance with the rules laid out in the Fees and Charges Booklet.

Changes to Harper Adams University's Terms and Conditions

The University reserves the right to make changes to these Terms and Conditions at any time if necessary, for example, it is required in order to: comply with changes to the law, governmental policy, guidance or to take account of a ruling by a court or similar body; comply with any changes required by the Office for Students (OfS) or any successor or other relevant regulatory or funding body; implement new methods or improvements to the provision of services; to assist in the delivery of services; to incorporate good practice or sector guidance; to ensure fitness for purpose; to correct errors.

Such changes will normally be brought into effect for the following academic year, although it may be necessary to introduce changes earlier, for example, to comply with a change in the law or where the change is in the interests of the majority of students. The University will notify students as soon as reasonably practicable of any changes and will try to assist students as much as reasonably possible to reduce the impact of any such changes. The current policies and procedures referred to in this document are maintained on the University's Key Information Page webpages for Applicants and Students at www.harper.ac.uk/keyinfo.

Please note that all the detailed arrangements which are accessible through the Key Information Page weblink are subject to annual review, through approved decision making processes.

Limitation of Liability

The University will not be responsible to students for any losses or damages suffered that were not foreseeable. Loss or damage is foreseeable if either it is obvious that it will happen or if, at the time the contract was made, both the University and the student knew it might happen. The University will have no liability to students for any loss of opportunity, income, profit, loss of business or business interruption, or loss of business opportunity. Unless it is liable in negligence for personal injury or death, the University limits its liability to the value of tuition fees paid by a student or on a student's behalf.

Students are advised to obtain insurance for their own property before they arrive at the University.

Force Majeure

The University shall do all that it reasonably can to provide educational services to its students. However, in the unfortunate event that it is not able to provide any element of its services or in the event that there is any delay in performing, or failure to perform, any of its obligations as a result of events, circumstances or causes beyond its reasonable control¹, the University will try to assist students as much as reasonably possible to reduce the impact of such an event.

If such events affect students and their courses of study, the University will assist students as far as reasonably possible to reduce the impact. Measures that might be taken will include those cited in the Student Protection Plan and may include making alternative arrangements and/or amending provision to minimise disruption. Students will be notified and communicated with in respect of measures taken and may also be financially compensated to the extent of the course fees paid if it is evident that they have incurred financial losses due to such significant events. Please see the Refund and Compensation Policy for further details.

Severance

In the event that any part of these Terms and Conditions are found to be invalid, unlawful or unenforceable in any way, then such part shall be severed from the Contract without affecting any of the remaining Terms and Conditions which shall remain valid.

Governing Law and Jurisdiction

These terms and conditions are governed by English law and any legal proceedings in respect of them should be brought in the English courts. If you live in Wales, you can bring legal proceedings in respect of the services in either the Welsh or the English courts. If you live in Scotland you can bring legal proceedings in respect of the services in either the Scottish or the English courts. If you live in Northern Ireland, you can bring legal proceedings in respect of the services in either the Northern Irish or the English courts.

Regulation

The University's overarching regulator is the Office for Students (OfS at www.officeforstudents.org.uk). The University is also a subscriber to the Office of the Independent Adjudicator for Higher Education (www.oiahe.org.uk), which provides an external ombudsman service where students remain discontent about the outcome of a complaint or academic appeal that has completed the University's internal procedures.

Students and prospective students are encouraged to contact the University at any time with any queries in relation to studying at Harper Adams. In the first instance, on-course students are advised to contact their Course Manager and applicants are advised to contact the Admissions Teams at admissions@harper-adams.ac.uk for undergraduate enquiries and postgraduate@harper-adams.ac.uk for postgraduate enquiries.
